

FLIGHT

Our tequila & mezcal collection showcase the diversity of Mexico's highly celebrated spirits, both of which offer a wonderful & surprising range of flavors. Aging imparts different nuanced flavor profiles, as do the highly guarded techniques that Mexico's distilling families have used for centuries. Our flights offer numerous ways to experience the distinct flavors of tequila & mezcal.

BLANCO

Like all of our tequilas, our blancos are from 100% blue agave. This category of tequila is aged for less than two months, often times unaged altogether. This creates a tequila with a crisp finish, with little to none of the woody flavor found in longer-aged tequilas.

REPO

Translating literally in English to “rested,” this category of tequila has been aged anywhere from 2 months to a year. This aging process often gives more of a woody flavor, and as it ages, various other flavor notes develop to create a more intricate flavor profile than the younger blancos.

MEZCAL

Mezcal is defined as any agave-based spirit. Traditionally, Espadin makes up approximately 80% of the Mezcal that is produced. Although it is primarily crafted in Oaxaca, Mezcal can be produced in 10 different states of Mexico. The creation of Mezcal is rooted in family & each of the following have been hand selected to introduce you to the centuries long tradition.

JOVEN

Cristalino, which means “crystalline” in Spanish, is oak-aged tequila that’s filtered with charcoal. It’s generally crystal clear, as the name suggests, although some have faint tinges of color. The process is akin to many white rums, which can also be barrel-aged and have the color filtered out.
