

The first aeroplane from abroad landed in Mauritius at Mon Choisy on 10th September 1933, using an airstrip converted from a former racecourse in the north of the island. The single-seater aeroplane, a Potez 43, F-AMGP (named Monique), was owned by Maurice Samet of the Roland Garros Flying Club of Réunion; he flew it himself and was accompanied by Paul Louis Lemerle. On 10th November, two single-seater aircraft, each with a bag of mail (1,084 pieces altogether), left Rivière des Pluies airfield in Réunion for Mauritius. Two and a half hours later they landed at Mon Choisy where the Assistant Postmaster General of Mauritius, Selman Ah-see, met them and took charge of the mailbags, whose contents received arrival handstamps at GrandBay, the nearest post office to Mon Choisy.
