SAIGON THE CITY

WELCOME TO OUR NEIGHBOURHOOD

The French colonial town planners keenly developed a showpiece Saigon on the theme "Paris of the East" with wide boulevards and replica of Parisian architecture. Many of the period's grandest structures remain the city's most adored landmarks, but today, you will see no shortage of shimmering high-rises and skyscrapers too. The closer you look the more you see the city is a swirling mix of the past and present — in places it can appear thoroughly postmodern, if not a little ironic: the stunning French-period Post Office is now bookended by a new Arabica Roastery and Highlands Coffee; meanwhile, the imposing bronze statue of Ho Chi Minh by City Hall is flanked by luxury brand outlets like Bulgari, Chanel and LOEWE.
