DARJEELING

A beautiful pure black tea that grows in the Indian tea district Darjeeling, at the foot of the Himalayas on the border of Nepal. Darjeeling is known among connoisseurs as the champagne of tea. This tea has a spicy character and light notes of almonds and ripe fruit such as peach.

ROOIBOS CEDERBERG

Rooibos is a versatile caffeine-free tea grown exclusively in the Cederberg region of South Africa. The Rooibos plant thrives in the mountainous terrain, where it develops needle-like leaves and yellow flowers. After harvesting, the leaves are chopped and naturally sun-dried, turning them a rich crimson color. Rooibos has a nutty, full-bodied flavor, making it an excellent herbal substitute for traditional tea.
